Design Description

KELLO C is a wall sconce from the Kello collection - a continuation of the minimalist aesthetic inspired by Japanese design and complemented by subtle natural details. Its form is a precisely designed composition of a hemispherical metal shade, a milky white glass diffuser and a decorative ball made of ash wood. The whole is set on a slender metal frame, which easily attaches to the wall with a small bezel.

Kello means "clock" in Estonian. Although Kello lamps don't indicate the time, they certainly turn every second into a great(!) time! KELLO C brings rhythm and light to a space without dominating it - it's lighting that complements an interior with class and tranquility.

Lamp components and functionality

Available in two timeless colors: pure white (RAL 9003) and deep black (RAL 9005), KELLO C fits perfectly into both light and dark arrangements. A metal shade with a diameter of 27 cm hides a glass diffuser (Ø15 cm), which pleasantly diffuses the light. The ash sphere adds natural warmth and uniqueness to the composition.

The dimensions of the wall lamp are 55.5 × 27 × 28.8 cm, and the whole is attached to the wall with a metal bezel with a diameter of 8 cm. KELLO C is equipped with an interchangeable LED light source on a G9 thread (max 12W), which allows you to adjust the temperature and intensity of light to the needs of the space.

Application and IP20 protection class

KELLO C is designed for dry interiors (IP20) - the wall lamp is perfect for use in the bedroom as a bedside lamp, in the lobby, by the mirror in the dressing room, as well as in commercial spaces - boutiques, restaurants or hotel corridors. It can be used singly or in pairs - for example, on the sides of a bed or mirror.

Thanks to its form, it perfectly complements the other elements of the collection - the KELLO A, KELLO B pendant lamps and the KELLO ST table lamp - creating a cohesive, elegant lighting set.

Handcrafted and unique character

Like the entire collection, KELLO C is made by hand - each lamp is assembled to order with attention to detail and careful finishing. The natural ash wood gives it an individual character - no piece is identical.

Why will you love it?

- Because it perfectly combines geometry and nature - in form and material.
- Because it gives subtle, diffused light - perfect for relaxation zones and accent spaces.
- Because you will choose it in black or white - depending on the nature of your interior.
- Because it blends well with the other lamps in the Kello series.
- Because each piece is created by hand - with soul and precision.
